At Pocklington Junior School, we are committed to ensuring equality of education and opportunity for pupils with disabilities, staff and all those receiving services from the school. We aim to develop a culture of inclusion and diversity in which people feel free to disclose their disability and to participate fully in school life. The achievement of pupils with disabilities will be monitored and we will use this data to raise standards and ensure inclusive teaching. We will make reasonable adjustments to make sure that the school environment is as accessible as possible. At Pocklington Junior School, we believe that diversity is a strength, which should be respected and celebrated by all those who learn, teach and visit here.

Introduction

The Equality Act 2010 replaced all existing equality legislation, including the Disability Discrimination Act 1995.

The Act requires schools to have an accessibility plan aimed at:

- Increasing the extent to which pupils with disabilities can participate in the curriculum.
- Improving the physical environment of schools to enable pupils with disabilities to take better advantage of education, benefits, facilities and services provided.
- Improving the availability of accessible information to pupils with disabilities.

This is explained on Page 29 of advice for schools on the Equality Act, published by the Department for Education (DfE).

Schools are required to resource, implement and review their accessibility plan, as necessary. This plan will be monitored and evaluated by the local governing body. The plan attached sets out the Governors' proposals for increasing access to education for pupils or students with disabilities.

Pocklington Junior School is committed to ensuring equal treatment of all its employees, children and any others involved in the school community who have any form of disability, and we will ensure they are not treated less favourably in any procedures, practices or service delivery.

We will not tolerate harassment of any person, whether a person with a disability or any form of impairment, or a child who is a carer of parents with disabilities.

The Governors are responsible for the implementation of the Accessibility Plan – including planned monitoring visits, reporting procedures and any budget implications.

Legislation and Guidance

This document meets the requirements of schedule 10 of the Equality Act 2010 and the Department for Education (DfE) guidance for schools on the Equality Act 2010.

The Equality Act 2010 defines an individual as disabled if he or she has a physical or mental impairment that has a ‘substantial’ and ‘long-term’ adverse effect on his or her ability to undertake normal day to day activities.

Under the Special Educational Needs and Disability \(SEND\) Code of Practice 2015, ‘long-term’ is defined as ‘a year or more’ and ‘substantial’ is defined as ‘more than minor or trivial’. The definition includes sensory impairments such as those affecting sight or hearing, and long-term health conditions such as asthma, diabetes, epilepsy and cancer.

Schools are required to make ‘reasonable adjustments’ for pupils with disabilities under the Equality Act 2010, to alleviate any substantial disadvantage that a pupil with disabilities faces, in comparison with pupils without disabilities. This can include, for example, the provision of an auxiliary aid or adjustments to premises.

Legal Requirements

Local authorities, schools and colleges are required to develop plans to improve access for children with disabilities by:

- Increasing access to the curriculum, by embedding inclusive practices in the classroom to help remove barriers to learning.
- Improving the physical environment of the school, for example by the use of ramps, handrails, adapting doors and emergency exits, toilets and washing facilities and the use of physical aids to help pupils or students gain access to education (such as custom-built furniture and ICT equipment).

- Improving the delivery of information that is provided in writing, for example, by providing alternative formats such as large print, alternative languages, Braille and audio tapes and CDs, signing systems and communication aids to be used in responding to individual pupils or student profiles, taking advice from the L.A's specialist services.

Disability and Pocklington Junior School

Pocklington Junior School's policy on equal opportunities and disability is to ensure that there is no discrimination against any sub-group within its community, be it because of sex, religion, race, colour or disability. With this in mind, the school has put in place policies and procedures so that people with disabilities are not treated less favourably in the service, education or support they receive, than people without a disability. Meeting these requirements is consistent with the school's Equal Opportunities Objectives.

Access to this plan

This plan will be made available upon request to any current parent/carer or prospective parent who requests it; it is also available on our school website.

This plan will also be made available to any member of staff or applicant for a post at the school who requests it.

The role of a school as a service provider

Schools have additional implications as a service provider to make their buildings accessible when they hire out rooms or parts of the building.

Contact with parents and carers

When providing newsletters and information for parents and carers, we will try to make this information available in an accessible format. Additionally, events for parents and carers such as open evenings and meetings with teachers, will be held in accessible parts of the building.

Previous adaptations made to or around the school buildings

- There is an accessible toilet in the school building for use by those with a disability.
- Media projectors/TVs have been installed in all teaching rooms, as it is recognised that children with learning difficulties and problems with their sight, or who are partially sighted, find it easier to learn when teaching content is projected.
- Staff within the school who have required training to accommodate the disability needs of those they support, have volunteered for this so that children with educational, medical and personal care needs can gain access to the education provided.
- Accessible parking bays are available at the school.
- Cyclic servicing and maintenance is carried out on equipment to support those pupils or students with a physical disability.
- Specialist equipment is provided on a needs basis for those who require it.

Making things happen

In order to ensure that action is taken to meet the Equality Act, Pocklington Junior School has drawn up an action plan to make things happen, which outlines how the requirements of act will be met.
